

Young Men's Style!

You will find the vigorous kind in our store, not the feeble attempts at young men's style that get across under cheap prices and a suave salesman's salve.

Kupperheimer Clothes

—Stand out pre-eminently as young men's clothes of character.

Their designers know that you young chaps want the waist-line on your coat to be high and set off your shoulders.

They know you want that free-and-easy athletic appearance in your clothes, and you get it in a Kupperheimer Suit.

THE BEAUFORT, a very desirable young man's suit is shown here. We have it in all the new stripe patterns, in all the new wanted fabrics and patterns.

THE STORE WHERE QUALITY COUNTS

CARRY THE LAW.

Very few of our lawyers carry the green bags which were once a badge of that profession.

"I think the sight of such a bag once kept Joseph H. Choate from coming to Philadelphia to make a speech," Mr. Conlen said.

Mr. Conlen and another lawyer had gone to New York to invite the ex-Ambassador to England to deliver an address in Philadelphia. Mr. Conlen's companion carried a green bag, which he laid upon Mr. Choate's table, evidently to the great lawyer's annoyance.

"What do you carry in this thing?" he asked.

"I have some of my law books," the young Philadelphia attorney replied.

"When I was a young lawyer," Mr. Choate said, rather coldly, "I was taught to carry my law in my head."

And the invitation was declined.—Philadelphia Ledger.

JAPANESE FEAR FOXES.

The Japanese have many curious superstitions about animals, the chief among which is their belief in the supernatural power of foxes. There are numberless shrines, indeed, dedicated to foxes in Japan.

The badger is another animal feared by the superstitious Japanese mind. It is believed to have power to annoy people, and to be able to turn into a priest at will.

The crying of weasels and the baying of dogs are considered evil omens, and such insignificant happenings send a shudder over the believers.

In Japan a light-colored mouse in the house is a sign of happiness. If a spider falls from the ceiling in the morning it brings pleasure, but if at night it is thought to be very unlucky. To see a centipede at night means happiness in Japan.—Pearson's.

The Suits that are without parallel

In normal times it is easy to present a variety of styles of Suits in satisfactory quality at $15.

These are far from normal times in the woolen market—but there is no lessening of our wonderful assortment—and no lowering of our wonderful standard of $15 values.

It isn't a matter of intent nowadays—but of facilities—and our facilities are most superior as you know.

The point is we're using the same grade of woollens that we've always used in $15 Suits. As they equaled usual $20 values before—they are comparable with still higher prices now.

We provide with special effort for the Young Men—giving them the correct "Pinch-back" and Body-fitting Models—in Blue, in Oxford Mixtures, and in Smart patterns that are most suited for these models.

Same is true of the Conservative Models. They are designed for moderate tastes—and are full of character.

And you know the price hasn't any influence upon Saks-makemanship. That's the same, regardless of what you pay.

We've got the town talking about these Suits at $15.00

Selected Straw Hats

That word selected has a world of significance. It is the key to satisfaction—not only in quality; but in shape; and price. You know our reputation in Straw Hats. Even with all our enormous stock—of braids and blocks—every Hat has the outward stamp of quality; and the inherent worth that makes it superior—for we select with critical care—so our prices are very meaningful. We are perfectly sure that nowhere else can you begin to duplicate these grades of ours. Price doesn't mean much as a guide—look at the Hats! That's what counts.

Broody Hens Poor Layers

Contrary to the general opinion, hens that go broody early or often are poor layers. So says Edward S. Parsons, of New York, in Farm and Home, who bases his opinion on records kept for three years with a flock of 2,000 White Leghorns.

Broodiness can be cured, and the hen brought back to laying, but in the majority of cases the egg organs have become absorbed to the extent that it will take three weeks or more before the hen is laying again, and she usually will become broody for the second time after laying a few eggs. The few eggs laid by these hens during the summer months will not pay for the feed eaten and labor necessary for curing broodiness. By never using hens that have been broody as breeders the number of broody hens each year can be reduced. Whether it can be entirely bred out is a question.
